

Description: A teacher logs into her uRock account and attempts to import a song from a MIDI file. She specifies the name of the file as well as information about the song it contains, such as its title, artist, genre, and instrument. The resulting track is added to the program's library and henceforth treated like any other song.

Note: The login and logout for this scenario are identical those in the first, so it is omitted.

